Typesetting depends on small decisions repeated thousands of times: where a line ends, how much space follows a paragraph, and which words travel together across a page boundary. A faithful reproduction must make exactly the same decisions, because one different break early in a document moves every line that follows it onto a different page. Evening settles over the harbour while the lamps along the breakwater flicker on one by one, and the last ferry of the day slides quietly towards the slipway with its windows glowing amber against the darkening water.

Typesetting depends on small decisions repeated thousands of times: where a line ends, how much space follows a paragraph, and which words travel together across a page boundary. A faithful reproduction must make exactly the same decisions, because one different break early in a document moves every line that follows it onto a different page. Evening settles over the harbour while the lamps along the breakwater flicker on one by one, and the last ferry of the day slides quietly towards the slipway with its windows glowing amber against the darkening water.

A faithful reproduction must make exactly the same decisions, because one different break early in a document moves every line that follows it onto a different page. Evening settles over the harbour while the lamps along the breakwater flicker on one by one, and the last ferry of the day slides quietly towards the slipway with its windows glowing amber against the darkening water.
